Key Features

CE Electric needed a proactive digital development agency to manage their corporate web offering. We were delighted when they decided Enigma were that agency! We've been working together now for almost a decade and in that time the website has moved from being primarily a corporate communications tools, towards offering comprehensive customer services.

Right now, we're busily devising the next exciting generation of the CE Electric website... watch this space!

What does the client say?

While working with Enigma, we have undertaken a merger (necessitating a complete revision of our site), a number of design changes to the site to conform to new parent company requirements and various accuracy and vulnerability audits, not to mention constant changes to and expansion to the site itself. Enigma has helped us through all of these, cheerfully and expertly, showing great patience with their client, who usually knows what he wants but cannot explain it in technical language or know how to achieve it.

I have particularly appreciated the proactive way in which Enigma volunteer fresh approaches and new ideas, all of which help enhance the final product.

I have no hesitation in recommending Enigma to any potential client.
